Vice-Admiral Burkhalter, Mr. John Grimes, Mr. George Cotter, and Mr. Dave Austin to name a few. In one presentation, Mr. Austin suggested that the commercial representatives should provide excess, unused circuit bandwidth at a reduced price when needed by NSA. Later in the symposium, an AT&T representative indicated that they would be willing to lease unused bandwidth, but not to expect a reduced rate. Of final interest, NSA provided an architectural briefing on their proposed "Global Telecommunications Service" (GTS).
